

HELD IN THE SNOW

Two Men Supposed to Have Perished in Colorado

CAUGHT IN A BIG AVALANCHE

A Snow Slide Completely Blocks a Tunnel in Which They Were Laboring—Rescuers at Work.

LEADVILLE, Col., Feb. 3.—George Gillespie, a woodchopper, arrived Tuesday morning from Black's Gulch, 12 miles from here. He gives an account of a awful snow slide in which Pat McGuire and Jim Cronan are supposed to have perished. Both men were working in the Deer Lodge property, in which they were running a tunnel. Nearly every day the men visited the woodchopper's camp.

Caught in the Tunnel.

Not having seen them for a week, Gillespie and two other men went over to see what was wrong, and found that an immense snowslide had partly destroyed the cabin, while the tunnel was completely blocked with snow. Gillespie and his partners at once dug out the cabin, but found no one, so it is evident that the men were in the tunnel when the slide occurred.

A rescuing party is now digging, but as the snow is very deep it will take some time to get in. Gillespie states that he has hopes of finding the men alive, as they would be suffocated if they had been there any length of time.

ANOTHER BANK CLOSED UP

An institution at Kearney, Neb., fails with liabilities of $150,000.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 3.—The Kearney (Neb.) Commercial and Savings bank failed to open its doors Tuesday morning and considerable excitement exists among the depositors, who are mostly laboring people. The failure was caused by the withdrawal of city and county funds. The state bank examiner has taken charge of its affairs and will issue a statement in a day or two. President Barnard this afternoon issued a circular in which he pledges every dollar of his private fortune to the liquidation of the bank's debt and assures all that the bank will pay dollar for dollar. The liabilities are placed at about $150,000 and assets about the same.

THROWN FROM THE TRACK
